Katrina, Do you have any good website locations for cool quotes for scrapbooking? Julie.

This is a great question, one I actually get asked often. I love words on my pages and sometimes I prefer a quote or poem rather than more journaling. These are the two sites I use most often.

Quote Garden has lots of great quotes and short quips that are perfect for cards and in your scrapbook. I like the way it is organized by event, so it is really easy to find what you are looking for!

Father's Day Quote:

Fatherhood is pretending the present you love most is soap-on-a-rope. ~Bill Cosby

Denny's Poems and Quotes

is a great site for scrapbookers. There are a ton of poems and quotes, as well as page ideas and page titles, all organized by theme. There are also lists of ideas for ABC books! I have used this site for a long time and have more than gotten my "money's worth. (That really wasn't hard since it is a Free site!) www.dennydavis.net

Acoupled daysoff...

I think days off might be for someone else! I got to take 5 days away from the store last week (Wed through Sun) and I was ready to come back by Friday! I missed you all! But the time off was definitely good for me.

For two days, Chuck and I got the opportunity to go to a regional vendor event, do some make n' takes, see new products and visit with other store owners. We generated all kinds of new ideas for the store and YES, I ordered some MORE new product! Check regularly over the next month or so to see it.

We also spent 3 days at my brother's house dog sitting. All I have to say is my brother brings a whole new definition to "spoiled dog!" Everything in the house revolves around this dog; "we don't heat stress the dog" (I froze the whole time) and "we make sure he's comfortable" (I was exhausted from getting up to let him out every 3-4 hours). But, it was nice to do something for my brother, and he definitely needed the break!

While we were in the Twin Cities, we visited several "other" scrapbook stores. We saw a few things we want to avoid, and lots of great ideas we'd like to try. We talked with several other store owners who understand the value of co-operation, so we will be cultivating those relationships to help us bring you great new ideas and products! We will be moving some things around in the store again, in order to make it better for you.

I have been battling some inner demons related to the challenges of retail and store ownership, and I am happy to report that the few days off and the co-operation with those other owners have relit my fire! I am excited about our new ideas and other things that we will implement over the next couple weeks. Come in and taste the excitement!

Summerschedule...

For the summer months Scrappy Friday will be scheduled every OTHER Friday. This will help to assure that the Friday's we have scheduled will fill so we don't have any cancelled dates! Cancelled Friday's are disappointing for everyone! (Also, a little selfishly, I can have a date with my husband once in a while!) So watch the dates and sign up early for those Friday's!

Remember — only $12 buys you the time to get some great projects done, dinner and snacks, and lots of fun and social time too! So, if you haven't tried one, give us a call. If you haven't come in a while, give us a call. If you are a regular Friday nighter, give us a call! (Do you see a trend here??)

We love to have fun on Fridays (and Chocolate IS a food group!)
